EVIDENCE

Air photograph interpretation.
--------------------------------

DESCRIPTION

Two separate shallow excavations (?) aligned roughly N-S. The smaller, eastern hollow somewhat irregular in plan with a rock face possibly on the west side. The longer western feature appears to have two parallel excavations with possible spoil mounds. An unusual feature which is difficult to interpret from the available air photographs.

IMAGES

None.

NOTES

These features were identified as quarries in the TAG 2006 Atlas, with the note "probably limestone" but the site is west of the supposed outcrop of the Belling limestone and the associated sinkholes. Requires site inspection.
